A MOTLEY REICHSTAG.

GERMANY'S NEW PARLIAMENT LIKELY TO BE A REMARKABLE BODY.

THE OLD PARTIES DIVIDED INTO MANY FAC TIONS, EACH WITH ITS OWN PROGRAMME-THE CURRENCY QUESTION-DR. VON ROTTENBURG AND HIS BRIDE.

Berlin, June 10.-At the general elections for members of the Reichstag to be held on Thursday pext, and at the bye-elections that are sure to be required, 307 members of the House, the full complement will be returned. The present week closes with 1,550 candidates in the field. Not only new aspirants for seats, but new political factions appear daily, and as election day draws nearer the confusion grows worse confounded. Little can be done in the few days that will clapse before the polling to disentangle the intricate web that has been weven by the many factions. Instead of the eight recognized parties in the late Reichstag holding the electoral field in the present campaign, there are about twenty sections, each fighting for its own programme. The programmes often agree on some one common point, but on other points they cross and recross in such confusing emands that it would be a difficult task to say what any single faction really wants. It seems impossible now that the result of Thursday's balloting will decide how the Reichstag will be constituted. Judging from the present outlook, it is thought that the vote in most of the constituencies will be so split up that reballots will be necessary in two-thirds of them.

ANTI-SEMITES SPLIT IN FACTIONS.

Among the latest developments in the political situation is the breakup among the Anti-semites. The Jew baiters" now consist of three distinct factions. posing Particularist sections. South Germany and Eastern Prussia have produced a Lithuanian party; Hesse an Autonomist party, and Mecklenburg a Constitutional party, which demands reform in local groups—Free Conservatives, Old Conservatives and National Liberals—Lieber "Centrists," von Schoriemer-Alst Moderates, Extremists, Freisinnigs, Volks partel and Socialists. Yet this unparalleled medley remains without the accompaniment of anything like popular excitement. The candidates who are stumping the constituencies are generally heard amid an academic quiet. It is only the Anti-Semites and demonstrations of enthusiasm. Herr Sigi ands among the Eavarian peasants a hearty response to his Prussophobe and protection utterances; but, taking Germany as a whole, it is doubtful whether the electors will take the trouble to poll their full

The final results must depend on political combinations on the reballots. Where the final ballot in any district lies between a Conservative and Socialist coalescing may assist in the return of the Conservi tive candidate. If the issue is between a Conservative and a "Centrist," then the Freislange and Socialist minority will probably throw its vote for the "Centrist" candidate as an opponent of the Army bill In many districts the strength of the factions is sevenly distributed that it will be a to-sup as to whill candidate will head the poll. All over the country the reballoting must lead to complex bartering and vote-mongering bargains, and the elections on the second poll will often be decided not on lines of party policy, but on considerations of a private o

COMPLEXION OF THE NEW REICHSTAG. Everything promises that the new Reichstag wills the most motley Parliament known to history. be the most motley Parliament known to make, The Conservative groups, according to the party mainst organs, mean to organize a movement against universal suffrage. The National Liberals evince a less marked tendency in the same direction. The Conservatives aim to substitute a graded system of class representation for every Diet of the Federated with each Diet electing delegates to the Reichstag. They seriously discuss this proposal as the only salvation from the democratic deluge which now threatens to sweep the country.

London, June 10 .- Another yacht race took place today, in which the Prince of Wales's cutter Britannia and Lord Dunrayen's Valleyrie, which will be the English contestant for the America's Cuptook part. The Britannia arrived first at Dover, but the Valkyrie won the race on time allowance. The Valkyrie is a smaller vessel than the Britannia, and the latter has to allow her about a minute, The start was made soon after 10 o'clock this morning. There was a fairly strong wind from the east-northeast and the weather was fine. The water was somewhat choppy. Besides the Valleyrie and Britannia, the cutters Satanita, Callinna and Iverna took part in the race. The wind was too strong to allow the boats to use their heavy topsails, and only light convas was carried aloft.

The Iverna had the best of the start. Soon after crossing the line, however, the Valkyrie took the lead, closely pressed by the Britannia. The Callinna had had her keel lightened during the week, and sh showed the effect in unusually good salling. Th satanita acted badly, not taking the stiff breez over well. From her action to-day it is considered rather jumpy, and stuck her nose into gether too much for a fast sailer in a seaway

CONGRATULATIONS TO MR. PAYARD. SOUTHAMPTON, IN GAY ATTIRE GREETS THE AMERICAN AMBASSADOR-HIS RESPONSE TO ADDRESSES OF WELCOME.

Southampton, June 10.-The city to-day is a mass of flags and everybody is in holiday dress, in hono of the airlyal of the American Line steamer Parls bringing the first American Ambassador, Thomas F Bayard, to England. Southampton has a gala appear ince similar to the celebration which attended the arrival of the New York as the pioneer of the nev

The Paris came to her dock at 5:40 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Bayard was welcomed first by Samue R. Thayer, United States Minister to the Netherlands Thomas H. Sherman, the retiring United States Con sul at Liverpool followed him aboard to meet Mrs. James G. Blaine. Mr. Bayard had hardly informed Mr. Thayer that he had enjoyed the voyage and was in excellent health before the Mayor of Southampton the representatives of the Corporation, the members of can Line, to the first cabin. A few minutes later Mr. Bayard entered the cabla with Mrs. Bayard of his arm, bowing right and left. The Mayor ther presented to Mr. Bayard an Illuminated address, which

read as follows:
"The Mayor and burgesses of Southampton cordially offer you their hearty congratulations upon your arrival in this country to undertake the duties of American Amba-sador at the Court of St. James, and they rejoice to offer through you to the President and people of the United States the sincere expression of their respect and esteem, and of their desire t between the two nations. Receive the warm as between the two nations. Receive the warm as surance of our friendship for the worthy descendants of the Anglo-Saxon, and of our kindred feelings toward civinzation, of which your countrymen, like us, are pioneers. We trust that your official duberwill prove happy, and that they will advance the prosperity of the United States."

The president of the Chamber of Commerce presented to Mr. Rayard an address which referred to the unique interest felt by Englishmen in the first American Ambassador to come to their country, and their confidence that his mission would serve to knit more closely the boach of cordial friendship already existing between the United States and Freat lintain.

Mr. Bayard replied that not only personally, but also as the representative of his ichow-countrymen and their Government, he gave his sincere thanks for the gracious reception accorded to him. He was glad to get his foot on the soil of old England. (Cheers.) He was glad to breathe here the free air of liberty that he breathed at home, and to be sainted in the same mother tongue that he heard as he parter from America's shores. It had been an additional pleasure that the voyage had been an accomplished with such celerity, safety and comfort by a noble ship, ably commanded, well officered, abundantly equipped and flying the American flag as she sailed in the permanent service between two branches of the one race. (Cheers.) He was sure that this line ship, like her sister, the New York, was but the precursor of a fleet of vessels, larger, finer, faster and American-bailt, which would ply between the United States and Southampton. He viewed the present fleet as the harbinger of a majestic procession of commerce between the two nations—of commerce, beneficient and peaceful, growing out of a juster and more expansive system of trade intercourse.

"I cannot omit to congratulate the citizens of Southampton," Mr. Bayard continued, "upon the choosing of their home to be the terminus in Europe of such an extended commerce. You referred to my official designation. I feel its honor, dignity and responsibility, and value them chiefly as means to give me greater facilities more perfectly to bring about a harmony of interests between the two great itain.
